Assignment 3 Report

Name: Alikhan Shikhiyev

Group: IT-2510

Project: Nomad Bookshelf

GitHub repository URL:
https://github.com/kapchaman/WEB_Frontend_Assignment3

Task 1. Media Queries by Hand

The "Curated shelves" section was built with my own CSS only. I used CSS Grid and mobile-first media queries. On a phone the collection cards appear in one column. At 768px the grid changes to two columns, and at 1100px it changes to four columns. The heading size and section spacing also increase at wider breakpoints.

Task 2. Bootstrap Grid and Components

The rest of the page uses Bootstrap 5.3 from the CDN. The navbar collapses on small screens and links to page sections. The hero section uses Bootstrap columns and ordering so the image and text stack on phones and align side by side on laptops. The club cards use `col-md-6` and `col-lg-4`, so they become one card per row on phones, two on tablets, and three on larger screens.

Bootstrap components used: navbar, cards, accordion, and modal.

Task 3. Comparison

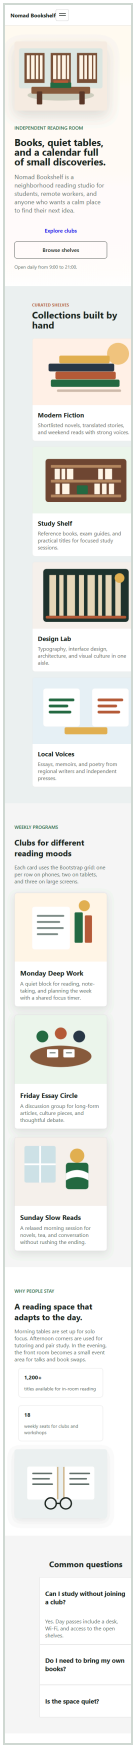

Criterion	Media queries by hand	Bootstrap grid
Amount of code	I wrote custom rules for the collection grid, cards, images, and breakpoints.	I used Bootstrap classes like `container`, `row`, `col-md-6`, and `col-lg-4`, so less CSS was needed.

Criterion	Media queries by hand	Bootstrap grid
Control over design	I had full control over exact spacing, card behavior, and breakpoint changes in the handmade section.	Bootstrap was faster, but the layout follows Bootstrap's existing grid and utility system.
Speed of work	It took more time because every responsive rule had to be planned and tested.	It was quicker because common responsive patterns were already built into Bootstrap.
Ease of changes	Small visual changes are easy, but layout changes require editing CSS media queries.	Changing column behavior is simple by changing classes such as `col-md-6` or `col-lg-4`.

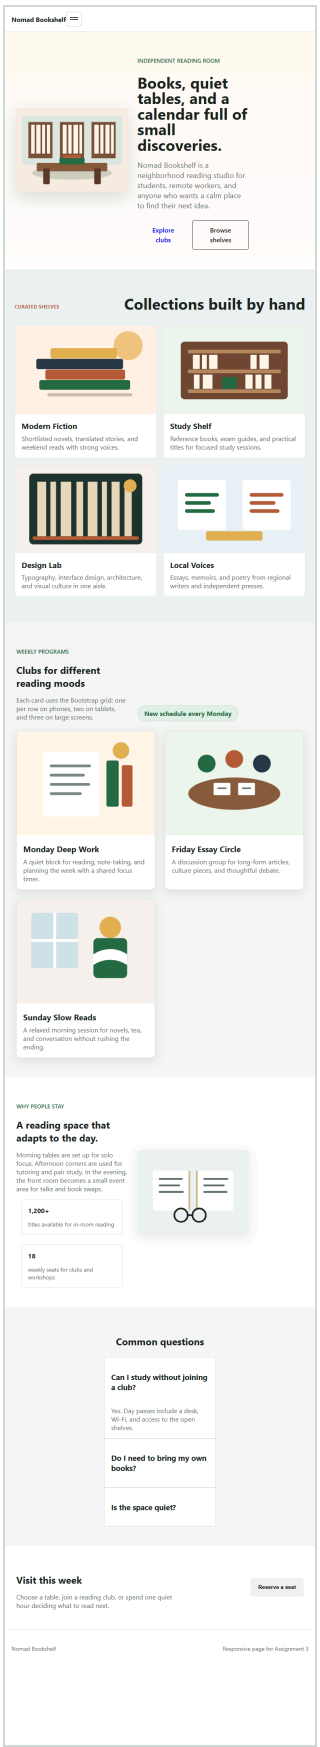

I would choose handmade media queries when I need a unique layout or more control over the exact design. I would choose Bootstrap when I need to build a clean responsive page quickly with standard sections like navbars, cards, accordions, and modals.

Screenshots

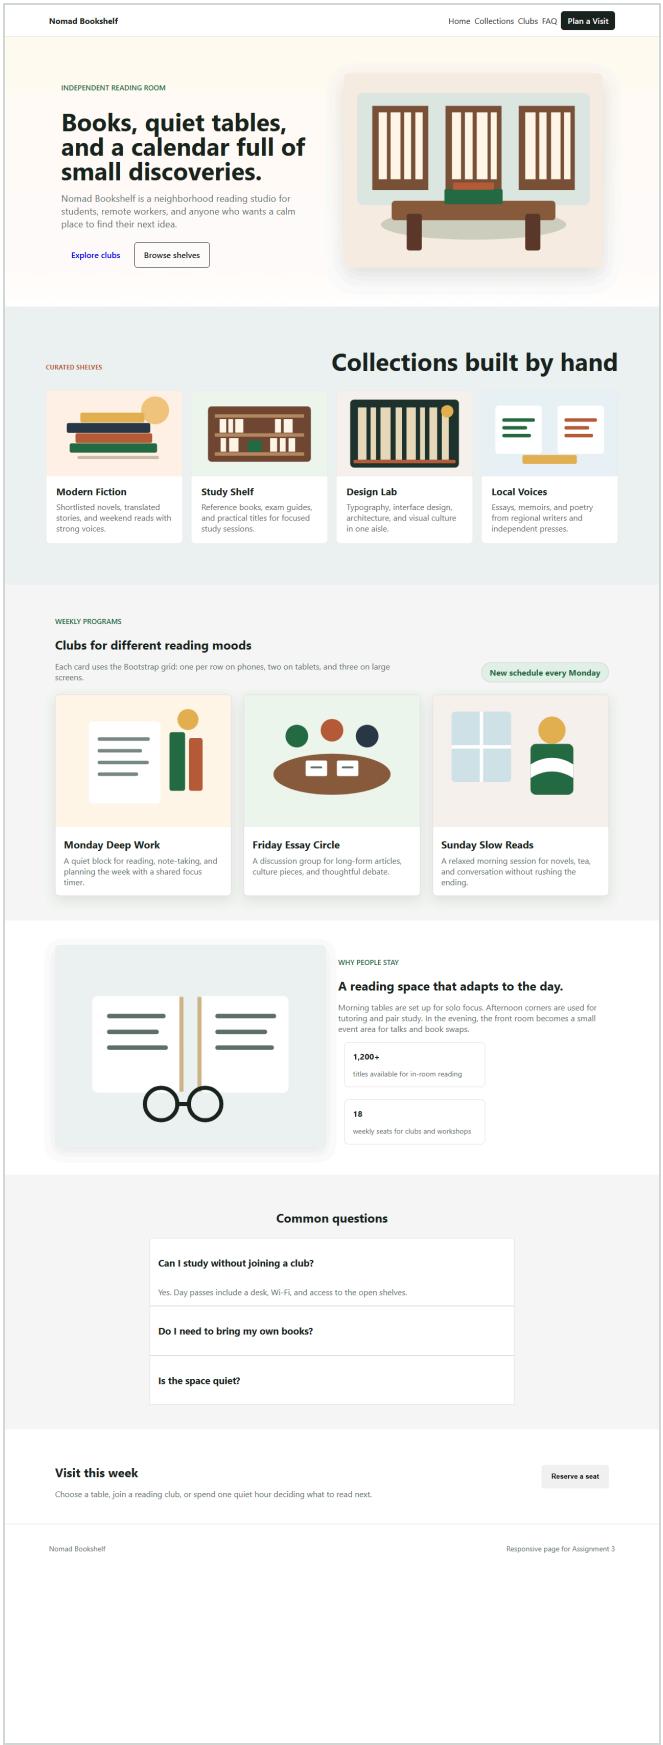

375px

Nomad Bookshelf
INDEPENDENT READING ROOM
Books, quiet tables, and a calendar full of small discoveries.
Nomad Bookshelf is a neighborhood reading studio for students, remote workers, and anyone who wants a calm place to find their next idea.
Explore clubs
Browse shelves
Open daily from 9:00 to 21:00.
CURATED SHELVES
Collections built by hand
Modern Fiction
Shortlisted novels, translated stories, and weekend reads with strong voices.
Study Shelf
Reference books, exam guides, and practical titles for focused study sessions.
Design Lab
Typography, interface design, architecture, and visual culture in one stack.
Local Voices
Essays, memoirs, and poetry from regional writers and independent presses.
WEEKLY PROGRAMS
Clubs for different reading moods
Each card uses the Bootstrap grid: one per row on phones, two on tablets, and three on large screens.
Monday Deep Work
A quiet block for reading, note-taking, and planning the week with a shared focus timer.
Friday Essay Circle
A discussion group for long-form articles, culture pieces, and thoughtful debate.
Sunday Slow Reads
A relaxed morning session for novels, tea, and conversation without rushing the ending.
WHY PEOPLE STAY
A reading space that adapts to the day.
Morning tables are set up for solo focus. Afternoon corners are used for tutoring and pair study. In the evening, the front room becomes a small event area for talks and book swaps.
1,200+
titles available for in-room reading 18
weekly seats for clubs and workshops
Common questions
Can I study without joining a club?
Yes. Day passes include a desk, Wi-Fi, and access to the open shelves.
Do I need to bring my own books?
Is the space quiet?

768px

Nomad Bookshelf
INDEPENDENT READING ROOM
Books, quiet tables, and a calendar full of small discoveries.
Nomad Bookshelf is a neighborhood reading studio for students, remote workers, and anyone who wants a calm place to find their next idea.
Explore clubs
Browse shelves
CURATED SHELVES
Collections built by hand
Modern Fiction
Shortlisted novels, translated stories, and weekend reads with strong voices.
Study Shelf
Reference books, exam guides, and practical titles for focused study sessions.
Design Lab
Typography, interface design, architecture, and visual culture in one aisle.
Local Voices
Essays, memoirs, and poetry from regional writers and independent presses.
WEEKLY PROGRAMS
Clubs for different reading moods
Each card uses the Bootstrap grid: one per row on phones, two on tablets, and three on large screens.
New schedule every Monday
Monday Deep Work
A quiet block for reading, note-taking, and planning the week with a shared focus timer.
Friday Essay Circle
A discussion group for long-form articles, culture pieces, and thoughtful debate.
Sunday Slow Reads
A relaxed morning session for novels, tea, and conversation without rushing the ending.
WHY PEOPLE STAY
A reading space that adapts to the day.
Morning tables are set up for solo focus. Afternoon corners are used for tutoring and pair study. In the evening, the front room becomes a small event area for talks and book swaps.
1,200+
titles available for in-room reading 18
weekly seats for clubs and workshops
Common questions
Can I study without joining a club?
Yes. Day passes include a desk, Wi-Fi, and access to the open shelves.
Do I need to bring my own books?
Is the space quiet?
Visit this week
Choose a table, join a reading club, or spend one quiet hour deciding what to read next.
Reserve a seat
Nomad Bookshelf
Responsive page for Assignment 3

1280px

Nomad Bookshelf
Home Collections Clubs FAQ Plan a Visit
INDEPENDENT READING ROOM
Books, quiet tables, and a calendar full of small discoveries.
Nomad Bookshelf is a neighborhood reading studio for students, remote workers, and anyone who wants a calm place to find their next idea.
Explore clubs
Browse shelves
CURATED SHELVES
Collections built by hand
Modern Fiction
Shortlisted novels, translated stories, and weekend reads with strong voices.
Study Shelf
Reference books, exam guides, and practical titles for focused study sessions.
Design Lab
Typography, interface design, architecture, and visual culture in one aisle.
Local Voices
Essays, memoirs, and poetry from regional writers and independent presses.
WEEKLY PROGRAMS
Clubs for different reading moods
Each card uses the Bootstrap grid: one per row on phones, two on tablets, and three on large screens.
New schedule every Monday
Monday Deep Work
A quiet block for reading, note-taking, and planning the week with a shared focus timer.
Friday Essay Circle
A discussion group for long-form articles, culture pieces, and thoughtful debate.
Sunday Slow Reads
A relaxed morning session for novels, tea, and conversation without rushing the ending.
WHY PEOPLE STAY
A reading space that adapts to the day.
Morning tables are set up for solo focus. Afternoon corners are used for tutoring and pair study. In the evening, the front room becomes a small event area for talks and book swaps.
1,200+
titles available for in-room reading 18
weekly seats for clubs and workshops
Common questions
Can I study without joining a club?
Yes. Day passes include a desk, Wi-Fi, and access to the open shelves.
Do I need to bring my own books?
Is the space quiet?
Visit this week
Choose a table, join a reading club, or spend one quiet hour deciding what to read next.
Reserve a seat
Nomad Bookshelf
Responsive page for Assignment 3

Conclusion

In this assignment I practiced building a responsive page in two ways. I learned how mobile-first CSS media queries give precise control, and how Bootstrap makes common responsive layouts much faster to build.